

PhD Workshop - Call for proposals

Like in previous years, the Educational Committee of the International Commission of Military History invites PhD. students to take part in a workshop for young scholars who are still working on or have just finished their PhD thesis on a topic related to “Colonies and Colonial Wars in History“.

The purpose of the workshop is to give young scholars the opportunity of discussing their projects with young as well as experienced colleagues from over 40 Countries.

This workshop is part of the annual meeting of the International Commission of Military History, which will take place under the auspices of the Cameroonian Commission of Military History in Douala, Cameroon from 2 to 8 September 2017.

We expect a presentation of 20 minutes. Some PhD papers may be published as part of the conference proceedings in 2018.

Applicants should offer papers dealing with:

- Significant military figures in colonies
- Local authorities and wars
- War efforts in colonies
- Colonial possessions and wars
- Women and wars in colonies
- Colonial prisoners and deportees during the World Wars
- International Conventions and wars in colonies
- World Wars and migration in colonies
- World Wars and decolonization
- Cold War and post-independence revolutions.
- Colonial Wars and Civil Society

The working languages for the event are English and French,
